

Common Features

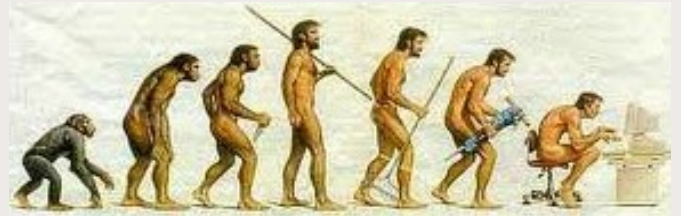

Man's common features with apes & chimps are no surprise since we share the same planet. It's the differences that set us apart. About 40 million individual evolutionary events separates chimps from humans. Of these about 35 million DNA bases are different.

Humans have 689 genes that chimps lack and chimps have 86 genes that humans lack. This means 6% of the gene complement differs between humans and chimpanzees, irrespective of individual DNA base pairs.

QUOTE: "The main problem in reconstructing the origins of man is lack of fossil evidence: all there is could be displayed on a dinner table." - New Scientist, 20 May, 1982

www.CreationData.com

Evolution's Molecules to Man Theory

Simply Doesn't Add Up Against The Evidence!

"Here is Why"

- Natural processes do not explain complex molecules that support all matter.
- The body is made up of interdependent irreducibly complex organs which can not be created slowly over time.
- Evolution theory claims that beneficial mutations are key to developing life forms. Yet testable science verifies that harmful mutations dominate the mutation process from fruit flies to humans.
- Reproduction of apes or man requires both male and female to procreate. Evolution requires that in the beginning each evolve at the same time and in the same place. The mathematical probability of this is calculated to be zero.
- The complex interdependent DNA, RNA and Protein model can only exist if God exists. This is because the protein that makes DNA can only be made from the coded instructions on the DNA itself.
- There are no agreed on transitional fossils confirming evolution theory. Evolution theory reeks of deception - Piltdown Man, Nebraska Man, Java Man, Ramapithecus, Lucy, Peking Man, Cro-Magnon Man, Neanderthal Man.
- In its simplest form all life is made from non-living parts. Without God life does not exist.
- The geologic column is the product of man. Life forms appeared suddenly and fully formed in so called the Cambrian period.
- Evolution theory contends mankind evolved from primates. At least 61 primates make up the total primate population today of 1.6 million. There are 7.3 billion humans living today, 4550 x the primate population. If evolution theory were valid there should be about 277,500 new species spawned from humans. Where are they?

Molecules to man simply doesn't fit the evidence!

- Natural processes do not explain complex molecules that support all matter.
- The body is made up of interdependent irreducibly complex organs which can not be created slowly over time.
- Evolution theory claims that beneficial mutations are key to developing life forms. Yet testable science verifies that harmful mutations dominate the mutation process from fruit flies to humans.
- Reproduction of apes or man requires both male and female to procreate. Evolution requires that in the beginning each evolve at the same time and in the same place. The mathematical probability of this is calculated to be zero.
- The complex interdependent DNA, RNA and Protein model can only exist if God exists. This is because the protein that makes DNA can only be made from the coded instructions on the DNA itself.

- There are no agreed on transitional fossils confirming evolution theory. Evolution theory reeks of deception - Piltdown Man, Nebraska Man, Java Man, Ramapithecus, Lucy, Peking Man, Cro-Magnon Man, Neanderthal Man.
- In its simplest form all life is made from non-living parts. Without God life does not exist.
- The geologic column is the product of man. Life forms appeared suddenly and fully formed in so called the Cambrian period.
- Evolution theory contends mankind evolved from primates. At least 61 primates make up the total primate population today of 1.6 million. There are 7.3 billion humans living today, 4550 x the primate population. If evolution theory were valid there should be about 277,500 new species spawned from humans. Where are they?

Molecules to man simply doesn't fit the evidence!

Common Features

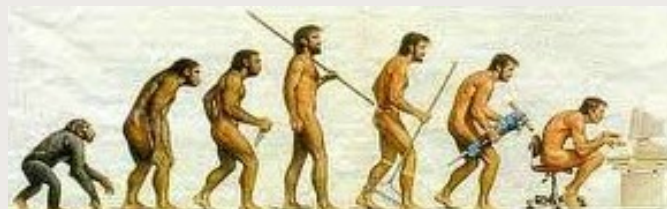

Man's common features with apes & chimps are no surprise since we share the same planet. It's the differences that set us apart. About 40 million individual evolutionary events separates chimps from humans. Of these about 35 million DNA bases are different.

Humans have 689 genes that chimps lack and chimps have 86 genes that humans lack. This means 6% of the gene complement differs between humans and chimpanzees, irrespective of individual DNA base pairs.

QUOTE: "The main problem in reconstructing the origins of man is lack of fossil evidence: all there is could be displayed on a dinner table." - New Scientist, 20 May, 1982

www.CreationData.com

Evolution's Molecules to Man Theory

Simply Doesn't Add Up Against The Evidence!

"Here is Why"